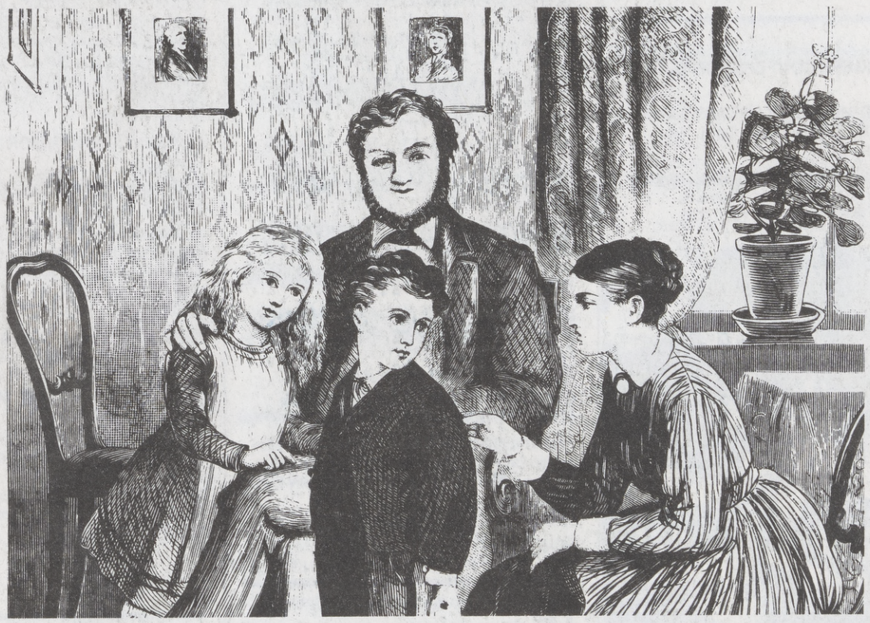
TODAY & TOMORROW

MARCH 13-26, 1982



"Family House," a new facility where parents can stay when visiting their hospitalized children who have cancer, was formally dedicated on Sunday, February 28. The Family House organization is comprised of parents, interested members of the community, physicians associated with the Pediatric Cancer Unit at UCSF and other health care professionals. It is not associated with the University of California.

The house, which is located at 50 Irving Street, was formerly owned by the Mormon Church, and was used to house missionaries. It is a warm and homelike place with large family rooms, several kitchens, six bathrooms with showers, a communal laundry room, playroom, office and library.

It can house 11 to 15 families, and will be used as a residence by parents and siblings visiting their hospitalized children who are being treated at UCSF's Pediatric Oncology Service or as outpatients.

According to Arthur Ablin, UCSF chief of Pediatric Oncology and a member of Family House, children with leukemia and other forms of cancer have a much higher survival rate than they used to, due to recent medical advances, which means longer remissions for these patients and a higher percentage of long-term survival.

However, this also can mean years of periodic hospitalization and outpatient treatment. Until now, parents had to sleep on the ward in order to be with their sick youngsters, and there were only limited facilities for families or outpatients to stay nearby.

Tax deductible contributions may be sent to Family House, 50 Irving Street, S.F., CA 94122. For further information contact resident managers Jean Diaz or Richard Diaz, MD, at 753-3505.

The Fourth Annual Sampson Lecturer is Burton E. Sobel, MD, professor of Medicine and director of the Cardiovascular Division at Washington University, St. Louis.

Sobel will be in San Francisco for a three day round of lectures, Monday to Wednesday, March 22 to 24. On Monday, he will present a special Department of Medicine lecture, "The Therapeutic Promise of Calcium Antagonists" in Carr Auditorium at SFGH from 2 to 3 p.m. On Tuesday, he will present Medicine Grand Rounds entitled "Strengths and Limitations of Conventional and Investigative Nuclear Cardiology" at the VAMC, S.F. The lecture series was established three years ago to honor John J. Sampson, MD, UCSF clinical professor of Medicine and senior physician at Mount Zion Hospital and Medical Center, on the occasion of his 80th birthday. One of the world's leading cardiologists, Sampson has been associated with UCSF for more than 50 years, and is a former president of the American Heart Association.

The Department of Anesthesia has received a $2.6 million five-year grant from the National Institute on Aging for the program project "Anesthesia and Aging." The program will study the influence of aging on the pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics of anesthetic agents.

Edmond I. Eger, MD, professor and vice chair for Research in Anesthesia, is the principal investigator for this multidisciplinary project which is shared with Stanford and the VAMC, Palo Alto. Eger also heads the component of the project entitled "Effect of Aging on Pharmacokinetics of Inhaled Anesthetics." Principal investigators heading other components are UCSF's Lewis B. Sheiner, MD, Ronald D. Miller, MD, Michael F. Roizen, MD and Anthony J. Trevor, PhD. Representing Stanford and the VAMC is Donald R. Stanski, MD.

Laverne A. Lopes, chief of UCSF's Police Department, is retiring as of July 1 of this year.

Lopes came to UCSF in 1949 as a patrolman. As a sergeant in 1954, he was in charge of the department, which at that time totaled five employees. He became captain in 1957 and chief in 1965. The department has since grown to 20 law enforcement officers and 10 support staff.

Lopes is a member of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and California Peace Officers Association, and has served on key committees on both.

A committee is presently conducting a search for this position.
